Mexican Factions Seem as Far Apart As Ever on Question of Settling Internal Differences

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, June 29.—In Washington mediation and the Mexican revolutionary movement both seemed to be in somewhat of an unsettled state.

Agents of Carranza who have been here for some time, conferred frequently throughout the day. Rafael Zubaran, the principal agent at Washington, left for New York on a special mission. Luis Cabrera, chief Constitutional opponent of the proposed informal conference of Huerta's representatives and those of the United States with the Constitutionalists, also announced he might go to New York in a few days.

After issuing emphatic denials of published intimations that Carranza's revolution is being financed by American interests involved in the National Railways of Mexico and allied corporations, Zubaran and Cabrera declined to discuss further the alleged correspondence relating to this matter. Zubaran and G. Hopkins, a Washington attorney, and Henry Clay Pierce of the National Railways left Washington for New York during the day. Cabrera declared he believed Carranza would send delegates to meet with Huerta's commissioners and the United States representatives to consider plans for a provisional government.

H. P. BARDSHAR CAPTULATES TO GOD OF LOVE, AND WEDS UNDER ROUGH RIDER STATUE

(From Tuesday's Daily.)

Appropriate was the place and beautiful was the scene last night as the clock was ticking away ten hours, when Miss Ruth G. Norton and Henry P. Bardshar were united as man and wife under the soft shadows of the Rough Rider monument on the Court House plaza.

Sentiment so expressed was a beautiful tribute to the cause of the men who made up this historic regiment and especially so to the groom's old commander, "Buckey" O'Neill, to whom this statute is dedicated. Mr. Bardshar was a member of the command, and enlisted as a private of Troop A, which was organized in Prescott by Col. A. O. Brodie, and Captain O'Neill, the first unit to volunteer in the war with Spain. Courageously serving in Cuba, the groom gained marked recognition later, when he and others were given special mention by Col. Roosevelt for bravery in attacking and capturing the block house on the summit of San Juan hill. This memorable deed earned the Rough Riders world-wide fame.

Returning to Prescott after the war was over, Mr. Bardshar resumed his mining pursuits, having interests in Cherry creek district, as well as in other sections of the county. In recognition of his military record later he was appointed by President Roosevelt as Internal Revenue Collector of Arizona and New Mexico, after refusing several positions of honor in foreign countries. He resigned the office after President Taft was nominated for the presidency, when he again returned to this field, to resume

WASHINGTON, June 29.—Secretary McAdoo mailed a letter to each of the 7,400 national banks in the United States asking whether they believe it to be advisable for the Treasury Department to lend a hand again this year in the movement of crops by distributing additional government deposits.

PASSENGERS SAFE.

By Associated Press.

LONDON, June 29.—Of the 1,016 passengers of the Anchor steamship California, ashore at Troy Island, 348 were landed here. The others were taken to Glasgow. In a thick fog the California ran on the rocks Sunday night, while bound from New York to Glasgow. According to the passengers there was no panic.

Britishers Are Warned To Get Out Of Mexico

By Associated Press.

MEXICO CITY, June 29.—In well informed circles it is reported that General Angel Garcia Pena, who was Minister of War in the Madero administration, but now one of Huerta's commanders is to be a candidate for the presidency of the republic in the elections to be held Sunday in that part of the country controlled by the government.

In view of existing conditions in Mexico, Sir Lionel Carden, the British Minister, has advised all British subjects to temporarily leave the country. He said the shortage of fuel used in operation of trains is growing more acute daily and that trains will probably soon stop running, which would make it difficult of departure for persons in the interior.

Sensational Disclosure In Graft Investigation

Clark Pleads In Court Next Week

Wants The Trial For July Term

(From Tuesday's Daily.)

One of the string of startling developments forecasted several days ago in the Clark graft investigation was sprung yesterday when County Attorney P. W. O'Sullivan filed a complaint in the Justice's court charging County Road Superintendent D. M. Clark with graft of a nature not classified in the previous complaints and informations later filed in the Superior Court. In this new complaint, the ninth filed, the accused road official is charged with having worked Frank Clinesmith in road construction work for the county during a period of 6 days and with having charged the road fund up for 25 days work.

Seven of the previous complaints alleged that Clark had engaged cooks for his private road camp boarding house enterprise and that the county road fund paid their wages. The eighth complaint charged Clark and his foreman, Jess Kellum, with conspiracy to defraud the county. The latest complaint charges the official with gross graft committed not even through the protective channel of the boarding house project.

Clinesmith has been a respected citizen of Prescott for some 30 years and the county attorney is inclined to believe that his testimony is not only accurate to the dot but that it will carry considerable weight with a jury. The evidence in this complaint was uncovered through pure accident as was the case when the initial graft scandal was brought to light.

The "old timer" was known to have worked on the Slate Creek road improvements late last year and the county attorney, accordingly subpoenaed him as a witness to testify at the Clark preliminary examination. When the accused official waived his preliminary examination, the witness, of course was excused.

Two days later, Clinesmith was requested to call at the county attorney's office, the lawyer desiring to procure some information on several points in connection with the work conducted at Slate Creek. A casual conversation followed and the county attorney suddenly, hit by a thought, asked Clinesmith how many days he had worked on the Slate Creek road.

Clinesmith replied that he had worked six days. The county attorney picked up the telephone, called up Clerk Belcher of the Board of Supervisors and requested that he look up the receipt signed for November 1, 1913. A few minutes later the word came from the supervisors' office that a receipt for twenty-five days work had been signed; that the warrant called for twenty-five days work at $3 a day and that Clinesmith's name had been signed to the receipt, the warrant paid and the records duly approved.

Clinesmith is a miner by vocation and had no use for road work. Early in October he had drifted in the direction of Clark's mine in Slate Creek district and asked for employment. Clark had informed him that there would be work in several days. Also he had been offered a temporary job at road work to spend his time until the mine work was ready.

Clinesmith accepted and worked for six days on the road. After that he went to work in Clark's mine and worked there for nineteen days, making a total of twenty-five days during which he worked under Clark. When pay-day came around the county superintendent presented a blank receipt for Clinesmith to sign. Believing that he was signing a receipt for the $18 for road work, Clinesmith made no queries but took the $12 in cash offered him. The sum of $6 was deducted from his pay envelope for board at Clark's private camp. Later, Clark paid him a personal check for his work in the mine.

Clinesmith declared he couldn't believe his eyes when he read the receipt which had been filled out after he had signed it and which called for "work for the county" for twenty-five days. The location of the Slate Creek road work was in close proximity to the Clark mine. The county attorney is investigating a rumor that county powder and supplies were utilized in the working of the Clark mine.

Clark will be arrested upon this new complaint, bail fixed and a date set for a preliminary hearing. If he waives preliminary examination as he did in the previous seven charges, he will probably be held under an additional $100 bond to await the action of the Superior Court.

Nothing Doing.

The county road superintendent is now practically an official without a job. There is no power except the recall to remove him from office except the alternative that he be convicted in a court of record whereupon the office is declared vacant.

But the board is vested with the authority to deprive him of all power and this course is now being pursued, pending the result of the trial. James Lowry has been appointed.

Archduke Ferdinand And Wife Are Assassinated

VIENNA, June 29.—The bodies of Archduke Francis Ferdinand and his wife the Duchess of Hohenberg, who were assassinated yesterday, were conveyed from Sarajevo by train to Metkovich Dalmatia. From there they will be transferred tomorrow to a warship which will proceed to Trieste under the escort of a squadron arriving at ten o'clock tonight. From Friday morning until noon they will lie in state in the chapel of Hofburg and the public will have an opportunity during these hours to pass through the chapel. Interment will be at midnight Friday at Arstetten. The Emperor will not attend the services but will be represented by Archduke Charles Francis Joseph. News of the proclamation of martial law at Sarajevo has excited surprise in political circles here which find it difficult to believe it was necessary to resort to such extreme measures to prevent anti-Serbian demonstrations. The tragedy marked the second attempt on the lives of the royal couple, the first being a bomb thrown earlier in the day, which was knocked aside by the arm of the archduke and exploded under the automobile, wounding two members of the suite.

It was while en route to visit the wounded at the hospital that the successful attempt was made on the archduke and his wife. Garvino Prinzip, a youthful Serbian student fired the shots.

pointed road foreman of the Lynx creek road work. Yesterday morning, Chairman William Stephens of the board left for the Black Canyon road to personally supervise some road work.

Clark has practically no jurisdiction over the road work. In fact, it is declared, he will not even be paid a salary by the county fathers, if his warrant is presented on the first of the month. The county attorney has instructed that payment be held up pending the result of the trial. The amounts alleged in the complaints, to have been grafted, will more than offset the figure of the monthly salary.

Ready to Go Ahead.

County Attorney O'Sullivan yesterday reiterated his former statement that he is ready to go ahead with the trial of the graft cases early next month, providing the defense attorneys acquiesced in this schedule. To date, there are on file in the Superior Court five informations charging graft against Clark. Both Clark and Kellum are to be brought up to face another charge of conspiracy in the justice's court. No action will be taken on this charge, however, until State Examiner W. H. Plunkett has concluded his work of examining the records of the road department. The county attorney must procure evidence from this direction.

Counsel Arrives.

Attorney LeRoy Anderson, chief counsel for the defense arrived yesterday after a two weeks' trip through the middle west. Mr. Anderson when seen by a Journal-Miner reporter took one long breath and said: "Whew! things sure have been stirring around here of late."

There is a strong possibility that Attorney Reese M. Ling of Phoenix will also be brought into the case with the defense. It is believed that Attorney Lamson's trip to Phoenix of a few days ago was taken in connection with such an engagement.

Ling's connection with the defense in the gambling cases and his general successful reputation as a defense lawyer in criminal actions has caused it to be generally understood that when the array of defense counsel is lined up at the bar, his face will be among those in view. To date, the announced counsel engaged by the defense is comprised by Clark, Taacher and Clark and Anderson and Lamson.

Continue Pleading.

By agreement of counsel the date set for Clark to plead to the five informations in the Superior Court was set aside and instead he will plead at 10 a. m., July 7. The sudden death of Clark's brother called him to California where today he will attend the funeral.

THEY WILL MEET AND TALK IT OVER

Conference has been Arranged Between Carranza and Villa to Discuss Their Differences

By Associated Press.

TORREON, June 29.—Arrangements have been completed for a conference between Villa and representatives of Carranza. The conference will be held this week. Villa arrived today from Zacatecas.

Why Villa Returned.

EL PASO, June 29.—Announcement from Torreon that a conference will be held between Villa and representatives of Carranza was received as partly explaining Villa's return with his army to Torreon and the abandonment of his campaign to the south. The general impression that the relations between Carranza and Villa had reached the breaking point was replaced with the expressed belief that a last effort will be adopted to bring the two together on some compromise.

What To Do Is Question.

NIAGARA FALLS, June 29.—Mediation tonight is in a most complex state. Its principals are undecided whether to formally adjourn or recess, or renew their efforts through the American government toward bringing the Constitutionalists and Huerta delegates into a conference for the solution of Mexico's internal problems.
